This appears to say two things: they did not consummate their deal on financing the film; and they are using Lifton to see what they may try to pick up free. How else can they do this "research" without the only book? I used a piece of scrap for this just to keep you up to date. Her letter is dated 2/6/74. One of the interesting aspects is that the letter-head lists a New York office but there has been no suggestion that one of them can get together with me from the east coast end. From her initial excitement I can only wonder why.
